second time, but he claims he does not recall whether her visit was voluntary or a statement secured. He says, however, that if any statements were taken they were probably turned over to the Prosecutor's office.

Senator Leavitt called his attention to what he claimed was his recollection of Glancey's conversation with him. Glancey then said as he recalled whether it was a case of written or oral statements, the two stories which this woman told were at wide variance.

Glancey did not know of any criminal matters in which this woman was involved while at Trenton.

I might add that I intend to talk further with Glancey and see if he cannot refresh his recollection in some way.

You will note that the Pennington Road murder and the Marshall case are probably the same affair.

Interviewed George D. Freudenmacher of 491 South Broad Street, Trenton. He was formerly employed in the Prosecutor's office and recalls the Marshall case, but knows nothing of Mrs. Easton's connection with it. He is now at Deputy United States Marshall.

Interviewed Mrs. Mary Costello of 360 South Broad Street. She formerly resided at New Brunswick and came to Trenton about two years ago. Learned nothing of any value from her.

Also saw Richard J. Carey of 5 Centre Street, which is in the neighborhood of Mrs. Easton's former store. He is an old resident but could furnish no information.

Endeavored to see Mrs. John Martin of 126 East Front Street relative to letter. Saw her son John who claimed his mother was
